HALACHIC CONSIDERATIONS IN CANCER PREVENTION AND MANAGEMENT.

INCLUDES PRACTICAL INFORMATION AND GUIDANCE. Few words in the dictionary are more frightening than "cancer." For Torah-observant Jews, there is an added element of complexity when it comes to cancer, whether regarding preventive measures or, R"l, an actual diagnosis. •At what age should we screen for certain cancers, and to what extent are we halachically obligated to do so? •In which situations does the medical community recommend prophylactic surgery, and does halachah require a person to undergo such surgeries? •Is it permissible and/or required to participate in clinical trials when standard treatment options fail to control a person's cancer? •What degree of autonomy does halachah grant a patient with metastatic cancer who is at the end of his or her life?
